CALL FOR PARTICIPATION

SECOND INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE
November 2018, Prishtina - Vushtrri, Kosovo

PUBLIC SAFETY EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS, A KEY FACTOR IN STRENGTHENING PUBLIC ORDER AND SECURITY

Call for application

Kosovo Academy for Public Safety is organizing an international scientific conference titled "Public safety educational institutions, a key factor in strengthening public order and security", during the 7th and 8th of November 2018 organizes.

Those who wish to attend the conference, academics, students, researchers and other professionals are invited to present their papers in public safety field. The conference will be held in Albanian, Serbian and English language, with the possibility of simultaneous translation in the above mentioned languages.

Justification of core topic of the conference

Proper education, is mainly a precondition of the welfare of society, that means the basic requirement of a better life for people all over the globe.

Good education in the security sector is also a precondition for providing good security services for the citizens of a country, as well as an important factor for enhancing and strengthening security in the neighborhood and beyond.

Taken as a whole, the welfare of a society, including public security, stands in proportion to the investment that society makes in educating its citizens: investing in education and training of law enforcement in order to strengthen the public safety of a country represents the distinctive feature of this area of education and training compared to others. While in other areas of education and training the results take time to seem tangible, in the area that is the subject of this conference the results are evident and tangible in a shorter time.

Recent studies and research have proved that countries with high-levels of welfare, including proper public safety, continue to increase investment in the education of their citizens.

The challenges are continuously various that society faces today, including the continuously various challenges in the area of public safety, obliges organized societies to increase investment in education, including investing in education and training in the field of public safety in order of confronting with these threatening challenges for mankind.

Investing in Educational Institutions - Security Training is a key factor in strengthening public order and security. This also is applicable to Kosovo. This has been applicable for all the former communist countries of Europe. In the case of Kosovo, it is more important taking in consideration the situation that has existed in the last decades before liberation, this topic becomes even more acute and the need to solve out its particular aspects,. The time has passed for Kosovo and its public safety to be treated as emergency issues and ad hoc trainings: public safety issue and the role of education should be addressed in the reflection of strengthened security institutions, requiring updates and specific ones that have been carried out by other countries in the region and beyond.

The purpose of the conference

The conference aims to bring together researchers from public safety field of the Balkan region and European countries with the aim of introducing models of educational institutions and training of their countries, experiences. Past and current challenges and findings from educational research - training of law enforcers. Kosovo, more than any other European country, needs to collect from experiences and achievements elsewhere and learn from the methodology used elsewhere.

Conference Objective

The main conference objective is to address the role and impact of education in the function of the mission of law enforcement institutions. Taking in consideration the challenges continuously variable that are happening all over the globe. In this context, the research that will be unveiled at the conference, including recommendations that may emerge from the conference, will serve to improve the study programs in the field of security as well as the creation of new programs to enhance the competence of those conferences which provide services in the field of public safety. Increasing the knowledge and skills of law enforcement is a need and a necessity of the time from which we should not escape: societies that open up debate about their weaknesses, and look prominent in the past and the experiences and results of others are the most successful.
